

My impressions of Next Library Conference

Next Library Conference was a great experience for me. I learned many things, and I met the world here.

Denmark is a beautiful country, and I appreciated the openness and solidarity of the Danish I met during my stay.

I met some nice people and very open, despite the difference. I learned a lot from them. And I hope I shared the best I know about libraries in Burkina Faso, my country.

I have visited many libraries in Denmark. I loved the fact that these libraries are the focus of their concern the needs of their community.

I liked how libraries are decorated especially youth space. I am very interested in the fact that a library should be a place attractive to users and the community

I appreciate being able to work with the panel: Building Your Community, which was an opportunity to share one of my biggest projects this year with different people, and have their views on the issue

I especially learned

How to make a good presentation - the powerpoints were very well done

How to lead a group activity - the workshops were very interactive and informative.

I truly believe that the organizers have done an excellent job, they were open since the early registration until the end of the conference. They assisted me whenever I needed them. I take my hat off to Lotte and Jacob, and all those who organized this conference.

I would especially like to thank the organizers for their support but also sponsors that allowed us to come here thanks to the scholarship.

I go to my country with a lot of new ideas. I will share with my colleagues what I have learned to make our libraries more user-friendly and more efficient
